CONGRESSIONAL.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, Dec 13.

[illegible] resolution for instructing the [illegible] to inquire into the propriety of [illegible] signal service bureau.

The resolution as amended by Edmunds, that the military committee shall make the inquiry was adopted.

The bill for the relief of Fitz John Porter was taken up on motion of Randolph by a party vote except that Hoar voted aye.

Edmunds moved to make one year from the passage of the bill the time within which Porter's restoration to the army can be made, so that the bill should not live until future administrations; rejected by a party vote except that Davis of Illinois and McDonald voted aye.

Carpenter argued against the power of congress to revoke the sentence of a court martial or reinstate persons expelled from the army.

Hereford, Carpenter, Thurman and others engaged in a debate on constitutional points connected with the appointment of Grant as captain-general.

Carpenter said that he had heard the startling statement to-day and would ask Senator McDonald whether he thought congress could discharge Gen Sherman to-morrow.

McDonald said that he did, and every other person in the army except the president, its commander in chief.

Carpenter remarked that the senate was then driven to the ground that Gen Sherman was not one of the officers of the United States which by the constitution the president was authorized to appoint.

McDonald claimed that he was driven to no such ground. His ground was that the army was provided for in another part of the constitution which gave the whole subject to congress.

Carpenter said that authority was there given congress to establish an army, just as authority was given it to constitute courts, but no authority was given to appoint officers of the army or judges of courts. There was also authority to make regulations for the government of the army, but no authority to govern the army, just as there was authority to establish methods of judicial procedure, but none to dictate judicial acts of courts or to say who should be judges except by confirming nominations. These distinctions were necessary to a proper separation of the legislative, executive and judicial functions of the government. Carpenter reiterated his argument that a sentence passed by a constitutional court of final resort, including courts-martial, was not reversible by any person or body. The president can pardon, but the senate cannot interfere in that executive privilege as in this bill it is proposed to do. Such action would be usurpation of power.

Voorhees denied the proposition that a court-martial was final judgment.

After further debate the senate adjourned.

House.

The credentials of E. B. Taylor, successor to Garfield, were objected to by Hurd, who stated that his grounds were irregularity of election on account of change in the boundaries of the 19th district. Taylor was elected by Garfield's old and original district after the limits of that district had been changed. Taylor's claim that he was duly elected from the original district was unsupported by precedent. The whole trouble was with the Ohio legislature, which passed a law whereby 186 000 people would have 15 representatives in the next congress, while 360,000 would only have 5 without providing for vacancies.

McKinley held that even if there were any force in Hurd's argument, Taylor had a prima facie right to the seat and thought that the case should go to the committee on elections.

After further discussion, Hurd withdrew the objection and Taylor qualified when his credentials were referred to the committee on elections.

Representative Berry introduced a bill to forfeit the unearned land grant of the California and Oregon Railroad Co.

The house took up the electoral count resolution for further discussion.

Wood gave notice that he would call up the funding bill to-morrow.

Upson introduced the following:

Resolved, That the construction of an inter-oceanic canal connecting the waters of the Atlantic and Pacific oceans by means of foreign capital under the auspices of or through a charter from any European government is hostile to the established policy of the United States, is in violation of the spirit and declaration of the Monroe doctrine and cannot be sanctioned or assented to by this government, that the United States will assert and maintain such control and supervision over any inter-oceanic canal as may be necessary to protect its national interests and means of defense, its unity and safety, and to advance the prosperity and augment the commerce of the Atlantic and Pacific states of the union.

He desired to have it referred to the committee on foreign affairs but this motion was opposed by several members who desired to have it sent to the committee on inter-oceanic ship canal.

Cox of New York, chairman of the committee on foreign affairs did not much care what committee the resolution went to. The foreign affairs committee had reported already a resolution on this subject and the American republic was disgraced because the American congress had not acted on that report. Let the house fix some time to consider that report and notify DeLesseps that the American people were still alive.

King of Louisiana, chairman of the inter-oceanic committee, moved that the resolution be referred to his committee, and argued that this was the proper committee to which to send it. A somewhat similar resolution had been reported in the house by that committee and it was to the shame of the American people that no action had been taken on it. He now held that report in his hand and, if permission were granted he would now put it on its passage. This being out of order, a vote was taken on reference, and the house by a vote of 94 to 64 referred the resolution to the foreign affairs committee.

The speaker then proceeded to call the roll of states for bills and resolutions under which call the following were introduced and referred:

By Page—Amending statutes in relation to consular fees, and in relation to the immediate transportation of dutiable goods.

By Myers—Asking the secretary of the treasury for information as to what sums of money have been paid U S Grant by the United States since he entered West Point until his first resignation from the army in 1868, also how much was paid him while president.

By Willis—To make letter postage 2 cents per half ounce, and reform the civil service.

By Hubbell—Imposing a duty of 1½ cents per pound on fresh water fish called hard fish and ½ cent on soft fish imported from Canada.

By Warner—For a commission of 15 senators, representatives and experts to revise the tariff.

By Deuster—Be it resolved etc. that the president of the United States be, and is hereby requested to notify the German government of the termination of existing treaties, and open negotiations for a new treaty fully covering the grounds heretofore taken by the United States government upon the subject.

Kelley introduced a bill providing for the payment of bonds falling due in 1881 but subsequently withdrew it stating that he would offer it as a substitute for the funding bill when that bill was under consideration.

Calkins offered the following resolution which was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the sympathy of this house is hereby extended to the unhappy laboring class of Ireland, in its effort to effect a reform in the present oppressive tenant system prevailing in that country.

Lowe wanted to offer a resolution for the appointment of a committee to examine the question as to whether the electoral franchise is restricted in certain states, particularly Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Delaware and Georgia.

Morse objected.

Conover from the public lands committee reported a bill for the relief of homesteaders and preemptors of public lands; referred.

Ward gave notice that after to-day he would, if the debate on the electoral count resolution had not concluded, move to postpone and take up the funding bill.

White appealed to the southern members to stop this senseless and treasonable discussion and let the declaration of the presidential election be made as hitherto. He did not oppose a law on the subject. In fact he had prepared a bill which he would offer as a substitute and would fight to the end the passage of this resolution.

Finley said that he had yet to hear men contradict the statement that Garfield was elected and would be inaugurated. Doubtless, if there was not a republican in the house on the 4th of March next Garfield would be inaugurated. The republicans were therefore frittering away time, but he would, he said, say to his own party that the democrats had invariably gone back on their propositions and made laughing stock of the democratic party. They hadn't the backbone to stick to the right. They should either stop pushing this resolution right here or stick to it till doomsday.

Davis of North Carolina said that the democrats would not imitate the republican electoral frauds of 1876-7.

Reed said the democratic party had got into the habit on the subject of fraud which it might be termed chronic. They were like a dog in [illegible] who when thrashed would rub his ear and growl and then rub his [illegible] and growl. He hoped that time would cure the democratic party as it had cured his dog—he was dead. Had the democracy in its inmost heart, believed in the fraud issue it should have presented to the people and nominated Tilden, the ablest and keenest man of the party. Never had there been a baser thing than this fraud business which Davis of North Carolina, had re[illegible]

The subject was then dropped and the house adjourned.

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DUBLIN, Dec. 13.—It is hardly [illegible] to say that [illegible] by private [illegible] in Ireland [illegible] and potent government which is rapidly superseding the imperial government and is obtaining [illegible] dence. It rules with an iron hand and the [illegible] tude with which it enforces instant obedience to its [illegible] shows that its executive is absolute. Its machinery complete and active [illegible] government de facto and [illegible] the [illegible] power which is dreaded, feared, and the latter exhibiting only pomp but little reality of power. The former is a terror to evil-doers, the latter no terror to evil doers. The law of the land league is [illegible] the law of the land and while the law of state is costly and to a large extent suspended the new law is extensively administered cheaply and conveniently. League courts are springing up at various places and [illegible] their disputes decided by such courts and [illegible] the assistance of magistrates in the interest of Ireland have lately been surprised to find no new cases brought before them except by the police. Proprietors have been for sometime advised to take this course, but are now beginning to act thereon. As a rule the penalties which said courts have the power of inflicting are regarded with more dread than those imposed under the statute. Another function of the new government—the levying of taxes—is most effectively fulfilled. The rate assigned by law is half so promptly paid as the tax which the league imposes. License to sell at fairs and in markets are required by the new government, and their production is enforced by a summary process. The only element wanting to constitute the new government a body of the country is a standing army, but materials for one are at hand and are being fitted for use when called upon. Knowledge of this fact creates deeper alarm, because with an armed and disaffected population around them loyal subjects of the queen in many places believe that the danger which looms beneath it is more formidable than visible terror. This fear is rather confirmed than allayed by military preparations of the government, and the arrival of the first battalion of the Coldstream Guards and an order for two more regiments of troops indicate that the authorities are conscious of impending danger.

The London Press on the Irish Situation.

LONDON, Dec. 13.—The Times says: It seems too plain that the Irish government already has allowed the reign of lawlessness to assume dimensions it should have never reached. Remedial legislation which might be effectual under better circumstances cannot be presented and a bribe to purchase peace from highwaymen to check lawlessness is now difficult. But what is this to the difficulty that must be experienced in checking it hereafter? When Forster comes before his colleagues the most determined of them who have opposed him must be newly impressed with the responsibility of the situation. The futility of the policy so far pursued has been demonstrated by bitter experience, and a new departure may well be recognized as inevitable. It would be necessary to pass an act to disarm the population, and the time that would be consumed in passing such an act would probably be fatal to the efficiency of the measure. It is possible that those who resisted application for new powers in a legal way may now be compelled to acquiesce in an assumption of powers by the executive, with the understanding that indemnity may be applied for at the first opportunity. It would be most unpatriotic if pride of apparent consistency caused the minds of ministers to be shut against evidence submitted to them in favor of the adoption of stringent action.

The Standard says: Summons for a cabinet council to-day were hurriedly issued yesterday. It is possible that to-morrow an immediate meeting of parliament will be announced. Forster informed his colleagues that without coercion he declines responsibility for the government of Ireland.

The Pall Mall Gazette in a leading article this evening says: The summoning of the cabinet for a meeting to-day will not cause much surprise to those who have been watching events closely and have observed Forster's character. For one thing it has been an open secret that one of the most important members of the government has borne with much uneasiness the decision at the last meeting not to ask for coercive measures. For another thing the want of grasp and firmness which Forster has shown from the first is exactly the quality from which we might expect precipitancy at last. It is a very grave crisis both to England and Ireland. If Gladstone and one section of his colleagues refuse assistance in extraordinary measures it seems almost certain that the ministry will fall to pieces. It is probable that Forster will obtain in some form the extraordinary powers that his subordinates at the castle have at last persuaded him that he must have. It is unlikely that ministers who have hitherto opposed coercion will break up the government rather than allow in December what they might be compelled to allow in January. The chances are that by this time to-morrow we shall have once more committed ourselves to the old policy of arbitrary government.

Intemperate Speech by Parnell—The Motives and Hopes of the League.

DUBLIN, Dec. 13.—Parnell speaking at Waterford Sunday said: I do not believe her resources are adequate to perpetuate her government in Ireland. "I do not believe," he continued, "that any amount of money or the strength and power of even the greatest in the world can work impossibilities and it is abundantly proved that governing outside of Ireland by a power and people who do not live in the country is impossible. We have gigantic forces allied against us but we have more powerful forces on our side, namely, the forces of nature, of nationality, of patriotism and true devotion. These are sufficient to break the yoke of English misgovernment and chase from the country that usurpation which has long had its foot upon our neck. Look at what we have done to this pitiful government in twelve months. We have obliged them to reverse every principle, every law, every tradition on which they have built their position. We have made them eat their speeches—even Gladstone. I don't believe Gladstone can settle the Irish question without breaking up his cabinet. He could not even pass his miserable compensation bill last year. If I had not been confident that the lords would reject it I would have had the Irish party reject it, but I preferred to let the lords do my dirty work. When John Bull finds that he will have to pay £50 000 000 for the next four or five years to govern this country he will think the English mode of governing Ireland very expensive. I may be told that concession would be better, but when concession perpetuates an evil it is better to reject it. I do not believe we can settle the national question till we settle the land question. I tell the British government that all their acts and statutes are so much waste paper; that it is impossible in these days to continue governing this country against the will of the majority of the people. No nation in history was ever able to do this and of all the nations that ever tried it England has made the worst mess of it. We stand to-day in the same position that our ancestors stood. We declare that it is the duty of every Irishman to free his country if he can. We refuse to inflict needless suffering on the masses. We will work by constitutional means so long as it suits us to do so. We refuse to plunge this country into the horrors of civil war, when she has no chance, but I ask any man if this [illegible] board I ask any true Irishman—be he priest or layman—whether he would not consider it the first duty of an Irishman to do what he could to enable his country to take its place among the nations of the world." [Deafening cheers.] If it could be proved to you that there is a fair prospect that success would follow from the sacrifice, I ask you whether it will not be your highest duty to give your lives for your country that gave you birth? I call for no useless sacrifice. I do not wish to be misunderstood. Our present path is within the limits of the constitution. England has given us that constitution for her purposes. We will use it for ours. If I ever call upon the people to go beyond the constitution we shall do so openly and above board. We shall not ask the people to take a risk we are not willing to share, but for the present will remain within the constitution relying on parliamentary action in England and upon organized national action at home. I believe we have in these the power to achieve our ends. We call upon you if you believe in their use and believe in our honesty to help us with the ability and the genius God has given you, confident in the future of our common country." [Great cheers.]

PACIFIC COAST BILLS.

REVERSION OF THE O. & C. R. R. LAND GRANT PROPOSED.

New Regulations for Transportation of Dutiable Goods—Ashcroft Bills for Relief, etc., etc., etc.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—[illegible] authorized the withdrawal [illegible] the first [illegible] July 1st [illegible] until July 1 [illegible] and that said railroad is not completed and no [illegible] nor for a long time has been made to complete the same. The bill therefore provides that all right title and interest of every kind and nature whatever of said company in and to all said lands between the present northern terminus of the railroad and the northern boundary of California shall terminate immediately upon the passage of this act and declares that said lands are hereby restored to the public domain and shall be disposed of like other public lands. It was referred to the public lands committee.

Senator [illegible] to-day by request introduced a bill providing that in all cases of conflict between townsite applications and mining claims whether lode or placer the [illegible] right to patent for the land in conflict shall be determined by priority of claim provided the same is otherwise in accordance with law.

A bill introduced by Representative Page amendatory of the law concerning the immediate transportation of dutiable goods was framed by Wells Fargo & Co and introduced at their request. In a letter transmitting a draught of the bill Superintendent Valentine says: A reasonable degree of convenience to the public away from ports of entry urgently requires modification or expansion of the present law on this subject. He illustrates the necessity for the proposed change as follows: "As the law now stands a 40-pound iron safe was required to carry a pound parcels from New York to Chicago for the Elgin Watch Company and a 170 pound trunk to carry 60-pound packages to San Francisco, that trunk having to be returned [illegible], say 170 pounds 3300 miles to get a 60-pound package 3400 miles. A leather or canvas pouch in the first case and a cord and seal in the second would have protected the government quite as well and fully." He further says: "The passage of the enclosed bill would obviate a great deal of delay and expense for all parties concerned."

Lachter introduced a bill to refer to the court of claims the claims of Herman Lubers, Herman Haupt and William Wallace, for destruction of their teams by Indians in San Bernardino county in 1867. Also a bill to grant a pension to Joseph Hind of the 1st regiment Kansas volunteers in the Mexican war.

Congressman Daggett is preparing a bill which he will shortly introduce to grant two years extension of time for the reclamation of lands heretofore entered under the desert land law in cases where attempts to bring water upon them by irrigating enterprises have been prosecuted in good faith but is not yet completed.

Senator Farley arrived to-day.

THE CANADIAN PACIFIC.

An Outcry from the Toronto Globe against such "Enormous Expenditure."

TORONTO, Dec. 13.—The terms of the bargain with the syndicate to build the Canada Pacific railroad are published in the Globe. The announcement is made on what it believes to be unimpeachable authority, and, having a friend at court, who is in a position to know, the statement is doubtless reliable. The Globe says: "It has long been asserted and admitted that the amount paid by the government is $25,000,000, and the amount of the land subsidy 25 000 000 acres. We are now in a position to state that the line to be constructed is divided into three sections for which the payments in money will vary according to the difficulty and costliness of the work. For the British Columbia section the bonus is 20,000 acres and $16 000 per mile, or a total of 8 000 000 acres and $6 400,000 for the section of 1000 miles across the plains or an average of about 5000 acres and $6000 a mile. Put in tabular form the statistics for the different sections are as follows:

		Acres
Lake Superior	$1[illegible],000 000	1[illegible] 000 000
Red river to Rocky mountains	[illegible] 400 000	[illegible] 000 000
British Columbia	[illegible] 000,000	8,000 000
Total	$2[illegible],000 000	25 000 000

We are also in a position to state that the whole of the land is to be taken from the fertile belt of the northwest. This puts the scheme, as a whole, in a startling light. For constructing and working the Lake Superior section which can be dispensed with for years to come, and which the syndicate are compelled by their bargain to undertake at once the country is to be called upon to pay a subsidy in money and land equivalent to $40,000 a mile. For constructing and working the British Columbia section which can also be safely postponed until the country is in a better financial position there is a bonus in money and land equivalent to $46 000 a mile." The Globe claims this, "For the present the whole of this enormous expenditure might be avoided by confining the scheme to the completion of the works under contract and the extension of the road westward from the Red river to the Rocky mountains. The task before parliament when it meets next week is to decide whether, in the present condition of the country, the scheme for building the whole line at such fearful cost before it is required shall be undertaken, or a more moderate and business like course shall be adopted."

Plaintiff's evidence was all from records and admitted without objection.

Burke on the Stand.

The case of Burke vs. Flood et al was resumed this afternoon. McAllister for defendants moved for nonsuit but the motion was denied, when defense called J. H. Burke, plaintiff, as their first witness. He had owned stock for a time in 1875 but not since it. He had bought the stock he now held. Just before commencing the suit in May 1878 he had first learned of the facts alleged in the complaint from John Trehane. Considerable sparring was had back and forth and the witness underwent a severe examination as to his motives and knowledge, being required to define his idea of the fraudulent concealment of facts alleged in the complaint. The examination will be resumed to-morrow.

Small Politicians Fall Out.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec 13.—Railroad commissioner Beerstecher was shot last night by Antone Fischer. The assailant was president of a German working men's club of which Beerstecher was a member. They had been close political friends, but after the election Beerstecher's election to the commissionership and the defeat of Fischer as candidate for recorder at the last election, the latter became an enemy of Beerstecher. Just before the shooting last night Fischer had been importuning Beerstecher to obtain for him some official position. The ball struck Beerstecher in the left breast, but it is hoped that the wound is not mortal. At last accounts he was resting easily.

Antone Fischer, who shot Railroad Commissioner Beerstecher last night was arrested about noon and locked up. It is now stated that Beerstecher's wound is not dangerous.

Antone Fischer, who shot Railroad Commissioner Beerstecher last night, and who was arrested on Powell street this afternoon, shows evidences of a disordered mind. It is ascertained that he has recently made some disposition of his property and affairs in a manner to create belief that he intended suicide. Also that he attempted to kill a shoe dealer named Berthe on Powell street last night. He professes to know nothing of the Beerstecher affair and disclaims any enmity towards him, but says if he had not been arrested he would this evening have visited Mayor Kalloch and a number of prominent stockholders with a view of shooting them. He appears entirely unconcerned. Fischer is a rabid socialist and was under police surveillance during the recent trouble in this city.

BAYARD AND CONKLING.

The Duke of Utica is not Satisfied with the Jersey Senator's Explanation—"The Press" Promises to Prove its Report.

WASHINGTON, Dec [illegible].—[illegible] correspondence between Bayard and Conkling is published which is quite [illegible] from [illegible] November [illegible] the open letter [illegible] Conkling [illegible] to Senator Bayard. In [illegible] which was very courteously [illegible] asking Bayard [illegible] that he (Bayard) ever made [illegible] to him in the Dover speech. Bayard as courteously responded repeating [illegible] his statement in that speech in [illegible] impugn the veracity of newspaper reports [illegible] the speech and said that it was [illegible] rate that no honest person [illegible] have written it. He says: "I remember speaking of the case of Phelps Dodge & Co and the proceedings under which a great sum of money, $270,000 was wrongfully taken from them. [illegible] I described and denounced in severe terms the moiety system and share which in this case [illegible] the collector, surveyor and naval officer and the informer Jayne and stated that the senior senator from New York (Mr Conkling) was understood to have received compensation as their counsel from Arthur Cornell and Laflin for his services and assistance in the transaction. Also that my authority for this statement was derived from documents published by one of the houses of congress, accompanied by testimony and statements made in [illegible] on the floor of the house and never to my knowledge contradicted. I believe I also referred to the publication by Wm P Wood, an ex treasury official made in the New York Sun on Oct 27, 1880, giving his account in full of the case. This I believe to be the form and substance of that part of the speech in question which had any reference to you or the moiety system. I shall be surprised to learn if there is an error of fact in my statement and shall correct it the slightest injustice has been done you and if there has been, will feel myself bound to apply any proper remedy when my error has been disclosed to me."

Conkling, not satisfied, replied curtly asking for a categorical answer, whether or not Senator Bayard did make charges of criminal and doubtful conduct against him and others, saying that Bayard had refused to answer as to any of the persons except him and that his denial is only inferential at best by impeaching the honesty of the reporter, that he then proceeds to make entirely different statements.

Bayard suavely responded, expressing surprise that Conkling could ask any more explicit statement than that the article as published was untrue, and [illegible] so.

The Philadelphia Press this morning affirms the correctness of its report, and says it has substantiated it completely by persons who heard the speech and that it will shortly present this evidence with more and conclusive testimony to the public.

THE NORTHERN PACIFIC SYNDICATE.

$40,000,000 to be Paid in During Next Year, and a Mile of Road to be Built Daily.

[Dispatch to the New York World.]

PHILADELPHIA, Nov 30.—Apropos of the announcement in to-day's World of the names of the bankers composing the syndicate which is to advance $40,000 000 with which to complete the entire line of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, a brief glance at the present state of the road and its future prospects will not be out of place. The company operated last year 722 miles. During the present year the Casselton branch to Goose river, 45½ miles, has been completed, on the Missouri division of 217 miles track has been laid for 175 miles, and the territorial line of Dakota was crossed a few days ago as was reported in the World. Work on the Pend d'Oreille division of 179 miles is going on rapidly, though there is a little delay just now for want of ties, but the rails are all there, and it is expected that the division will be finished this year. Twelve miles will also be built on the Columbia river division, between Ainsworth and Wallula, so that there will be an addition to the mileage this year of 481½ miles, making a total of 1203½ miles. The gap between the Missouri and Pend d'Oreille divisions is 820 miles. There is also to be built the Wisconsin division, from Thompson junction to Lake Superior on the Montreal river, there to connect with the proposed line to the Straits of Mackinac, and the Columbia river division to Portland, Oregon. A bridge must also be built over the Missouri, the cost of which is placed at $500,000. From the engineers' estimates it is thought that forty millions will prove more than enough to complete all these lines. As the company has now completed road enough upon which to issue the entire amount of the bonds that are to be sold during the first year, work on three divisions of the line will begin simultaneously. The advance guard is now grubbing the line on the Montreal division. The surveyors are locating the line on the Yellowstone division of 420 miles and work will soon begin on the Cascade division on the Pacific coast. The company has recently placed contracts for 35 000 tons of steel rails—15 000 with the Cleveland Rolling Mills, 10,000 with the Pennsylvania Steel Works, and 10,000 with the Bethlehem Iron Works. The Baldwin Locomotive Works are building twelve locomotives and the Detroit Car Works are getting out an order for 250 box, freight, ore and cattle cars. The expectation now is that the company will be able to complete a mile a day at least during the coming year.

The Kind of Talk to Split the South.

(Vicksburg Herald (Dem.).)

We are mortified that the fraudulent business in the third district is included in the official vote of Mississippi. The most casual observer will be convinced by scanning the result in the state, that the scarecrow cry about "nigger rule" is nothing but pure cowardice or selfishness, or both. The radicals in power, backed by the national administration, and controlling all the offices in the state, could not understand the irresistible force of intelligence and property combined. How idle and cowardly, then, the cries of the extreme Bourbons that the people are not to act honestly and justly for fear the "niggers" will get control of the state. If the people do act honestly and justly the time will never come when the ignorant will rule the intelligent, for knowledge is power, and knowledge combined with justice can not be overthrown.

ERUPTION OF MOUNT BAKER.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

SEATTLE, Dec 13.—At 4 minutes of 9 o'clock last evening a distinct shock of earthquake was experienced in this city. The vibrations were apparently from east to south of northwest. In some instances lamps vibrated four to six inches out of perpendicular each way.

A correspondent writing from the northern portion of Whatcom county near the British Columbia line thus describes a sight witnessed from his home one evening recently: A grand sight greeted me on the morning of the 27th ult. My dog was making quite a fuss which woke me up, when I discovered that there was an unusual light somewhere. On going to the door, which opens to the east I saw Mount Baker lighted up in grand style, the whole top of the mountain as plainly to be seen as by the sunlight and fire shot up far above the mountain top. There did not seem to be much smoke, but a [illegible] far into the heavens could be seen bright [illegible] and huge red sparks. The latter must have been [illegible]. The time was 3 A. M. and small light was visible. In the day time a light was seen in that direction from Seattle.

THE SIGNAL SERVICE

[illegible] these conditions are more stable than those prevailing in other parts of the continent. But the system of observations of barometrical and thermometrical conditions and of wind [illegible] and velocities extends [illegible] telegraph lines reach from the central office at Washington to all available points [illegible] Atlantic and Pacific [illegible] British America. The course and direction of all extensive atmospheric disturbances can thus be traced and their advent foretold long enough in advance to display signals of warning at all lake and seaports and upon the coasts. Arrangements have also been made with the chief of the signal service in Europe for the daily exchange [illegible] taken at the same instant over all the territories of the United States, nearly all Europe, extending through Russian Asia to the Pacific coast in the northern portion of Asia and in the northern portion of Africa. To realize the full value of this widely extended system of observations it is necessary that the reports of both continents should be transmitted by cable—so as to articulate and unify the entire system of observations throughout the world. But the whole machinery of observation, wide as its reach in certain directions, is still very crude and imperfect, and altogether too narrow in its range to furnish the data necessary for accurate scientific induction. It is however improving very rapidly, and there is little reason to doubt that the future meteorologist will be able to understand the genesis and development of all atmospheric disturbances which may be any way notable, and perhaps it may prove that when the system of observation shall be extended over the whole range of conditions, heat, moisture, electricity, the earth's motion and astronomical influences, the laws which govern atmospheric disturbances and what are now considered abnormal changes of temperature will be as distinctly formulated as those which govern the movements of the heavenly bodies. It may be possible in time to calculate with the same precision the coming of a hurricane, a rain storm, a drouth, a destructive frost, and whether the agricultural season will be wet or dry, or cold or hot, as it has long been possible to calculate an eclipse of the sun, or the reappearance of a comet. Originally the sole function of the signal service was the purely military one of communicating in time of war, by signals, by telegraph, or between different portions of an army, between different armies or between armies and fleets. But this original military function, useful only in time of war, has become a very subordinate and minor one since a new and immense field has been opened to the signal service by the use of the telegraph in meteorological observations from all parts of the continent as a basis for the prediction of storms and changes of temperature. It has become so useful that it will undoubtedly be continued and steadily improved, as one of the most important, if not altogether the most important, of the scientific enterprises of the general government.

GRAIN-PRODUCING LOCALITIES

It is somewhat curious to note what changes have taken place in the production of cereals in different parts of the country during the last few years. Of the wheat crop the Atlantic slope now produces only 17 per cent., against 30 per cent. in the year before the war. The central belt, that is, the belt between the Alleghenies and the Mississippi, has fallen from 54 per cent. to 40 per cent., while the region west of the Mississippi has risen from 14 to 42 per cent. The surplus wheat of the country is now produced only in the five states lying between the Ohio river and the lakes, and in Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, California and Oregon. The portions of our own country requiring part of this surplus comprise New England, the middle states and the cotton states. New England produces only three-tenths of a bushel for each inhabitant, the middle states grow three and one-third bushels, or a little more than half the quantity necessary for a full supply, the southern Atlantic and gulf states almost as much, while Kentucky and Tennessee, with nearly six bushels, are self-supporting. Of course the requirement of wheat is not the same, per capita, in all sections. In the south there is a large quantity of corn used, by whites as well as negroes, and taking the twelve states from Maryland to Texas together, four bushels per head is deemed the mean amount consumed.

Of less interest to us in this locality are statistics of the production of corn, as corn culture is not adapted to the high plateaus between the Missouri river and the Pacific ocean, and therefore need not be taken into any account of our prospective agricultural activities. Yet it may interest readers here to take note of the changes as to corn production in other states. The seat of corn production was formerly in the south. So late as 1859 the fifteen slave states produced 52 per cent. of the whole crop. In the year 1860 the corn growing states were ranked as follows: Illinois, Ohio, Missouri, Indiana, Kentucky, and Tennessee, but ten years later Iowa had dislodged Ohio from the second place. In 1878 Illinois and Iowa retained the first and second rank, Missouri and Kansas both passed Ohio, and then followed the other states mentioned in the same order as in 1860. The crop of all the southern states was only 10,000,000 bushels larger in 1877 than it was the year before the war, whereas that of the other states has risen in the same period from 400,000,000 to 000,000,000 bushels. The center of production has moved, however, more rapidly westward than northward. Already more than 40 per cent. of the corn crop of the country is grown west of the Mississippi river.

But corn culture can not be extended towards the west much farther. As we reach the higher altitudes and the cooler summer climate wheat becomes the staple. It will grow to perfection at elevations from 2000 to 3000 feet higher than those at which corn will flourish. The great wheat belt of the country is the yet unsettled northwest. Washington territory alone has capacity for producing three times as much wheat as California has ever grown, and the capacity of Oregon is greater still. The entire region from the Pacific ocean to the great lakes is an almost continuous wheat belt, and its producing power is beyond all calculation.

UNEASINESS ABOUT SILVER

So long as our government continues to sanction the fraud of coining 85-cent silver dollars there will be uneasiness in financial circles. An additional or compound fraud is produced by the issue of certificates based on silver dollars, some inquiry as to redemption of which under certain possible contingencies is already started. Congress ought at once to drop its demagogy on the silver question and proceed to deal with it on sound principles. It can not do this too soon. The president in his message and the secretary of the treasury in his report state the whole case unanswerably. We may add the following [illegible] effect from the report of the comptroller of the currency, John Jay Knox:

> The arguments used in favor of the [illegible] of silver under existing laws are thus [illegible] against all experience. No [illegible] put away for future use a product which will spoil by lapse of time or which will deteriorate in value. The bank, if well managed, will transact business on the same general principle as an individual [illegible] judgment would conduct his own affairs [illegible] holding in reserve that coin which is known to be of uniform value everywhere in preference to that which by the operation of the laws of trade or business will be likely to become of less value. The law compels the citizen and the corporation to receive all legal tender money in payment of debts, but it does not and ought not to require any one [illegible]

[illegible] receive on deposit that which will not as readily be [illegible] in turn [illegible]

This may serve as an explanation of [illegible] the banks and [illegible] assessment [illegible] think that [illegible]

[illegible] Washington [illegible] $40,000 [illegible] a proposition has been [illegible] about $40,000 [illegible] more than $80,000, and the expenditure [illegible] $40,000. While population during twenty years has grown fifty per cent [illegible] has increased only three and one-half per cent. [illegible]

Not only the people of Portland [illegible] all Oregon and Washington [illegible] satisfaction that the O. R. & N. Company has let the first contracts in preparation of construction of their rail road from Portland to The Dalles. Between the east and west divisions of Oregon and Washington there will now very soon be quick means of communication, and what is still better a line which will not be subject to obstruction by snow in winter or to delays from low water at other seasons.

It would appear that all the concessions which our government can reasonably demand have been granted by the DeLesseps Canal Company. All that we should require is a guarantee that the canal will not be used to discriminate against our commerce. This appears to be secured. The Monroe doctrine which there has been disposition to invoke against the DeLesseps scheme is a very indefinable thing and can hardly be stretched to cover this enterprise with its prohibition.

On further inquiry about the usury law which was passed by the legislature at the recent session we learn that it will not go into effect until the 25th January. We find it one of the acts which contain no emergency clause, and which therefore take effect ninety days after the adjournment of the legislature. This statement is necessary for correction of the statement made yesterday that the act took effect last month.

Day by day Irish matters are assuming more threatening and more serious phases. Dispatches of to-day make the situation wear a worse look than ever. It begins to appear more than probable that the agitation will go on till a riot breaks out or till a collision with the troops occurs. Should that be so the British government will again lay a heavy hand upon Ireland. It doesn't deal with rebels after our fashion.

Tammany stands by John Kelly and bears him stiffly up. The factions go on "branding" and defying each other. The probable consequence will be no more of those prodigious majorities in the city of New York. And this will tend powerfully to convince the south of the uselessness of continued solidarity. The vote of New York has been a main factor in every calculation of the solid south.

The San Francisco Bulletin says: "There is an item afloat as current news that the Willamette valley owes the business men of Portland $7,000,000." Whoever put that item afloat intended it no doubt for outside consumption, as nobody in Oregon would be gullible enough to take it down.

Many slight shocks of earthquake have been felt recently at Seattle and Tacoma and an eruption of Mount Baker is now reported. Whether these phenomena have any actual connection or not the fact that they are simultaneous will suggest it.

TUESDAY MORNING DEC 14 1880

AT REST.—Yesterday afternoon the remains of the late Dr Francis A Ellinger whose death [illegible] Sunday morning, were laid in the grave [illegible]. The funeral ceremonies in which [illegible] joined in expression of sorrow [illegible] gentleman and friend were [illegible] Rev F Fleming and Rev John [illegible] Episcopal church. Dr Ellinger was [illegible] May 5 1818 his family being one of the [illegible] most respected in the Old Dominion. When a youth he was graduated from the University of Virginia and a few years later from the Medical College of Philadelphia. The [illegible] years he passed in a successful medical practice. He then removed to [illegible] estate and [illegible] became the owner of [illegible] estate and [illegible] until the close of the war by which his wealth was greatly reduced. From [illegible] he resided in Virginia. Before [illegible] was a strict [illegible], and in conversation [illegible] gentlemen repeatedly raised [illegible] seeing, with keen dignity the certain [illegible]. The evening of his life was spent [illegible] uniform kindness charity and [illegible] winning him many friends. His death is sincerely mourned.

UP RIVER MAIL.—Capt Tuttle of the postal service, accompanied the steamer Wide West yesterday to the Cascades to look after the mails. All the mail was taken from here (including the registered letters and packages) and conveyed to the Cascades where connection was made from above Capt. Tuttle with the mail placed on horses and started George overland with it for the Upper Cascades. Harlow who has the contract for carrying the mail overland telegraphed Mr Moody of the Dalles yesterday and instructed him to send a wagon down to the Upper Cascades to meet Edgar and return with it to the Dalles. It is expected that the mail which left the Cascades yesterday will arrive at the Dalles this evening. All the registered mail was brought back on the Wide West as there was no connection from above.

A ROUGH TRIP.—Mr Coey who has been employed for some time past as purser on one of the O R & N Co.'s boats on the upper Columbia arrived yesterday at the Cascades on horseback from the Dalles. He reports having experienced a very difficult time in getting through. There were a great many land slides which rendered traveling extremely difficult. Mr Coey says that a number of persons started overland from the Dalles on foot at the commencement of the freeze and that most of them had a very rough experience. He passed several on the way who had frozen toes and fingers and were otherwise used up by the trip.

A SHARP SHOCK.—The East Portland correspondent of the Telegram says: "East Portland had quite a shaking up Sunday night. The quake was felt by a number of persons in various parts of the city. A gentleman living at the head of L street says that there was two distinct shocks the last being the most severe and occurring at exactly 15 minutes before 9 o clock. Col A J Dufur and [illegible] in Holladay's addition noticed but one, the last one, and state that it was severe enough to seriously alarm the family, who had just retired. At Mt. Tabor it was felt by various persons."

M. E. CHURCH FAIR.—Quite a respectable number attended the ladies fair last night. The room presented a beautiful appearance. From a platform in the center, at intervals the company was treated to splendid music, by Miss Dalton, Mesdames Goodsell and Woolner and Mr J C. Williams. The display of fancy and useful articles was very attractive and the tables splendid. Lunch is served to-day from 11 to 2, and supper to-night. No admission fee is charged during the day. Another fine musical programme this evening.

DEATH.—Mrs Ellen Cunningham about two months ago, underwent a surgical operation having a tumor removed from her breast. She suffered intense pain, her mind being affected and has scarce [illegible] been able to be around. Last week she was taken with illness and died at the family residence Sunday night. She will be buried from her residence this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

A FALSE ALARM.—Yesterday morning the big bell gave several irregular strokes, which occasioned some momentary excitement. When it was ascertained that the alarm was false things resumed their usual tenor. The circuit was broken somewhere by a workman placing timber or something across the wire, which caused the bell to strike, and upon its removal made the second stroke.

STILL AT LARGE.—The report which was mentioned yesterday to the effect that Charles Miller, the outlaw, had been captured and lynched in Marion county, turns out to be unfounded. Sheriff Ramsby of Marion county came down and informed us that he is still at large. Every effort is being made by the authorities to capture the fugitive.

CAUGHT ON THE CABLE.—A portion of the Dayton [illegible] which fell a few days ago floated down the Willamette and about 2 o'clock yesterday morning lodged against the cable of the Stark street ferry. The watchman summoned assistance and after two hours work in sawing the timbers they succeeded in dislodging the obstruction.

THE DRY DOCK.—A San Francisco exchange of [illegible] last says: "The steamer Columbia is going on Hunter's Point dry dock as soon as the Gath[illegible] comes out. She goes in for the purpose of [illegible] and making other improvements with a view to increasing her speed. Her new steel propeller has not yet arrived."

[illegible].—The bark Loch Awe, which has sailed [illegible] bound for Queenstown carries the following:

Portland 24,259 ctls wheat		$37,000
Astoria 8,282		12,588
[illegible] 32 541		$49,588

[illegible] PURCHASE.—It is understood that block [illegible] bounded by Front, Jefferson and Madison streets [illegible] Willamette river 200 by 200 feet has been [illegible] by agents of the Oregonian Railway Company [illegible] W. R. Smith, and that it will be used by [illegible] for a passenger depot. The purchase [illegible] reported at $70 000.

[illegible] CASCADES.—The steamer Wide West arrived last evening, twenty minutes to 10 o'clock. [illegible] the trip to the Cascades without [illegible], the channel being almost entirely free [illegible] carried up a very large freight, which [illegible] of the detention.

[illegible] MEETING.—Regular meeting of the [illegible] People's Association, this evening in the Baptist vestry. Every member, and those interested in this work, are requested to be present [illegible] made welcome.

NO QUORUM.—The regular monthly meeting of [illegible] board of trade was to have been held [illegible] evening. It requires seven members to constitute a quorum, and as only six members were present there was no meeting.

[illegible] RISING.—The Willamette is rising steadily [illegible] only lacks two feet of reaching some of the [illegible] docks. Those having goods stored in Central [illegible] dock will be notified to-day to remove them.

[illegible] CONCLAVE.—There will be a regular conclave of Oregon Commandery No 1, Knights Templar, at their asylum this (Tuesday) evening at [illegible] o'clock. Work in the Templar degree.

[illegible] TO SALEM.—Sheriff Buchtel conveyed Ed [illegible] Morland, who is under sentence to serve out [illegible] term in the state penitentiary for kidnapping to [illegible] Ville de Bush, yesterday afternoon.

U. S. DISTRICT COURT.—Judge Deady will announce [illegible] in this court this morning upon the demurrer to the indictment in the case of the U S v [illegible]

[illegible].—George Wright Post G A R will give a masquerade ball at Masonic Hall on the evening of Dec. 23d. A very enjoyable time is promised.

[illegible].—The Lalla Rookh loaded by Rodgers [illegible] & Co., and drawing 18 feet 6 inches leaves [illegible] morning for Astoria in tow of the Alice.

OUTGOING STEAMER.—The State of California [illegible] sail for San Francisco at 2 o clock this afternoon. Steamer mails will close at noon.

[illegible].—The guild of St Stephen s chapel will [illegible] this afternoon at 3 o clock in the room adjoining the chapel.

It is likely that work on [illegible] will begin by Feb 15th.

Operations on the line from Walla Walla to Grange City which had been delayed for ten days by reason of severe weather were resumed last Wednesday under direction of J L Hallett superintendent of construction. Grading has been completed [illegible] Dayton and within ten or eleven miles of Grange City. Iron will be laid as soon as it is received here and forwarded to the front, probably within ninety days.

THE HANDEL AND HAYDN CONCERT

The programme for the concert to be given at New Market Theater Friday evening is undoubtedly the most attractive ever offered by this popular society. All the choruses except the first (and it has been presented only once) are entirely new to Portland. They have had thorough rehearsal and the members are in good voice. The six choral numbers promise rich musical feasts. Of the soloists it need only be said that Mr Coursen, Mrs Wyatt, Miss Packard, Mr Kinross, Mr Lownsdale and Mr VanBeurden will appear in numbers suited to their abilities. But the programme speaks for itself.

PART FIRST

1 Ensemble—Triumphal March (From Naaman) Full Chorus and Orchestra — Costa
2 Duetto—Love On — Pinsuti
Mrs J B Wyatt and W H Kinross
3 Aria—Quand de la Nuit (from Lecki[e]) — Halevy
J VanBeurden
4 Madrigal—All among the Barley (unaccompanied) Full Chorus
5 Song—A Warrior Bold — Adams
M O Lownsdale
6 Chorus—Hallelujah — Beethoven
Full Chorus and Orchestra

NOTE.—Much as the Hallelujah Chorus of Handel is admired and by many considered the grandest of all the great choruses still the highest musical authorities of the present century award the palm to this grand chorus of Beethoven.

PART II

1 Chorus "Hunters — Von Weber
From Der Freischutz —Male chorus and orchestra
2 Violin Solo Selected — Edgar A. Coursen
Accompanied on the piano by Mr Simon Harris
3. Chorus, Fairies — Von Weber
From "Oberon —Full chorus
4 Song, "Hearest Thou — Malta. Mrs J B Wyatt
5 Aria, Ave Maria, — Gounod
Violin allegato by E. A Coursen, Miss Cora Packard
6 Aria Il Balen — Verdi — W H Kinross
7 Part Song Good Night Beloved — Pinsuti
Full Chorus

STILL BLOCKED

The Columbia was open to navigation from Wallula to Ainsworth yesterday except at Klickitat, 20 miles below The Dalles to which point the gorge moved and stopped. The steamer Spokane made the trip between Blalock s and Wallula. The Hassalo went down from The Dalles early in the morning to try to get through the gorge at Klickitat, but had not returned when the telegraph office closed. The temperature was lower than during Saturday and Sunday barely above freezing point. The Wide West continues to make regular trips every morning to the Cascades where the company s warehouse is filled with delayed up bound freight.

The [illegible] engineer has had assigned to him most important and extensive duties, for example the gathering of the necessary information for and the [illegible] topographical [illegible] the construction and repair of public [illegible] of military sites and the essential connecting routes. I can do better justice to the fidelity [illegible] useful work of this [illegible] his report which [illegible]

DISCIPLINE AND CONDITION OF POSTS

With regard to the discipline and condition of troops of this department I may say that I have never seen them better than now. The officers are temperate and industrious and the men well instructed and well behaved at every post in the department.

Our quarters have never been sufficient since the accession of Colonel Wheaton s regiment, the 2d infantry during the Nez Perce war of 1877 and many buildings that had a fair outside four or five years ago are not now fit for the occupation of officers and men.

Fort Coeur d'Alene which affords a special exception is a new post admirably arranged and well started, much of it completed under the command and supervision of Lieut. Col Merriam and since beautified extended and nearly finished under Col Wheaton. There are some new constructions at other posts but generally the buildings are much affected by the weather. All the log structures are going to decay and no efforts can keep them long in existence.

The medical director Lieut Col Elisha I Bail[ey] reports quite a large number of sick during the past year more than would seem to be a proper percentage for this department. The deaths are as follows:

Total number of deaths from all causes	14
Total number from accidents and injuries	9
Number from disease	5
In line of duty	8
Not in line of duty	6

He remarks: The following sanitary reports show not sufficient air space in the quarters of the troops: Vancouver barracks W T Fort Walla Walla W T Fort Coeur d Alene I T Fort Lapwai I T Fort Colville W T Camp Howard I T and Fort Townsend W T. This of itself is sufficient to add largely to the sick report, and is a condition that should be corrected without delay, nothing being more pernicious than over-crowding.

BEAVERTON
Homestead Tract
FOR SALE ON EASY TERMS,
In Parcels of from One to Twenty Acres.

About 700 Acres of Choice Garden, Pasture and Grain Land in the Charming and Thriving Township of Beaverton.

It is distant from Portland about six miles by the Canyon road, one of the most delightfully romantic of the roads leading out of Portland. The distance by the Westside Railway is about nine miles. The property adjoins the railway depot.

The land is clearly level, but fringed with gentle undulations, which are destined to be crowned with villa residences as Beaverton grows in favor as a suburban retreat.

The soil is of unrivalled richness, and repays the gardener's toil with fabulous yields of vegetables and fruits.

We invite those who desire to secure a self-supporting homestead, charmingly situated, with easy access to the city by road or rail to

MAKE AN EARLY SELECTION.

To the industrious gardener one or two acres will afford an ample livelihood.

To the dairy farmer no situation can be more advantageous or accessible.

FOR SUBURBAN HOMES

The convenience, healthfulness and beauty of the situation cannot fail to make the location a favorable one.

TUESDAY MORNING, DEC. 14, 1880.

ODDS AND ENDS.

That was a very pointed and possibly a very wholesome bit of sarcasm when a gentleman turned on a coxcomb, who had been making himself offensive, and said: "Sir, you ought to be the happiest man in the world; you are in love with yourself, and you have no rival."

It was a correspondent of the New York Tribune that telegraphed to his paper in all its thrilling details the fact that General Garfield's house at Mentor was about to receive a coat of drab-colored paint. The Cornell School of Journalism is certainly a great success—a diploma.

"Do you want to kill the child?" exclaimed a gentleman as he saw a boy tip the baby out of its carriage on the walk. "No, not quite," replied the boy; "but if I can get him to bawl loud enough, mother will take care of him while I go and wade in the ditch with Johnny Bracer!"

P. T. Barnum received a letter from a man who said he had made a bet that he (P. T.) was not a brother of W. H. Barnum, to which the showman replied that he thanked Heaven that there was no nearer relationship than that of Adam. The other Mr. Barnum is yet to be heard from.

An English correspondent of Harper sends the following: "Our minister, the Rev. Mr. S., was preaching a kind of farewell sermon before leaving town for a few weeks' holiday. You may imagine our feelings when he said in finishing up, 'I leave you my blessing, brethren, and may the Lord be with you until I return!'"

Mr. Labouchere announces that a gillie ball appears to be the latest fashionable craze in England, but is at a loss to see why any particular pleasure should be derived from seeing a number of bare-legged, awkward Presbyterians heavily skipping about, snapping their fingers and occasionally indulging in a sort of cat call, at other times in whisky.

Richard Grant White has startled the town by saying that society in New York is no longer a "controlling and refining influence." And a lady of one of the oldest and best families declares in the New York Times that "there is no such thing as society in New York, properly so-called." Gracious! what is this world coming to, anyhow?

"What shall we do with the Indians?" asks Secretary Schurz. Do with them? Why, man, make telegraph poles of them, grind them up for mince pies, make light-houses of them, Carley—anything you please, in fact. But the Indians have a way of sitting up all night, and scalping the army and such like; so you needn't worry. It isn't likely that any will be captured for some years.—New York Express.

During the last session of the court at ——, Wisconsin, Lawyer Blank had been trying for two long hours to impress upon the minds of the jury the facts of the case. Hearing the dinner-bell he turned to the judge and said: "Had we better adjourn for dinner or shall I keep right on?" Weary and disgusted, his Honor replied: "Oh, you keep right on, keep right on, and we will go to dinner."—Harper's Editor's Drawer.

An anecdote is told by Harper's Editor's Drawer of the late Father Taylor, of the Boston Seamen's Bethel. A prayer meeting had been prolonged one evening beyond the usual hour of closing, and he had been pretty well warmed up. Just then a few restless spirits in the rear of the audience took occasion to leave. The old man rose, and swinging his arm in his peculiar way, shouted out, "That's right brethren! the tide's rising, the driftwood is beginning to float!"

There was an incident of the Dow trial at Bolton that most unaccountably escaped the attention of the local press, and yet it is entirely too good to be lost to the public. When one of the female witnesses was asked by a prosecuting lawyer of a well-known convivial turn of mind if she believed in the bible, she replied emphatically that she did. "Do you believe, then, that wives should be obedient to their husbands?" asked the lawyer. She snapped her eyes and responded: "Not when their husbands come home drunk, like you do." You could have heard a paper of pins fall for ten minutes afterward.—Galveston News.

LIGHT READING.

This is the way a young lady Sabbath school teacher in a New England town exhorted her class of boys: "Now, children, if you'll be good, children, read your Bible, say your prayers, go to church, and never say naughty words—you'll go to heaven, and that will be perfectly splendid. But if you are not good children, if you don't read your Bible and say your prayers and go to church, and if you do say naughty words you'll go to hell, and that will be perfectly ridiculous."

The canny Scot has always an eye to the main chance, and will even go to church on a week day if he can get pay for it. A gentleman who employs a great number of hands in a manufactory in the west of Scotland, in order to encourage his work people in a due attendance at church on a fast day, told them that if they went to church they would receive their wages for that day in the same manner as if they had been at work, upon which a deputation was appointed to acquaint their employer that "if he would pay them for over hours they would attend likewise at the Methodist chapel in the evening."

Two men met on Sixth street, Detroit, and began threatening and calling each other names. One finally called the other names. One finally called the other a liar, and the two were about to grapple when a woman opened the door and said: "Gentlemen, are you about to fight?" "We are!" they answered together. "Then have the kindness to wait a moment," she continued. "My poor husband has been sick for weeks and weeks, and is now just able to sit up. He is very down-hearted this morning, and if you'll only wait till I can draw him up to the window I know he will be grateful to both of you." She disappeared into the house, and after one look into each other's faces, the men smiled, shook hands and departed together.

The Carson (Nev.) Appeal of recent date says: "A few days ago a Chinaman was released from the state prison after serving a sentence of three years for an assault to kill. He was given $25 and a new suit of clothes and directed to shift for himself. Day before yesterday the same man knocked at the gate; and when it was opened he thrust $22 50 into the keeper's hands for safe keeping. It was almost dark and he begged to be allowed to sleep in his old quarters over night. He was allowed to take up his abode in a woodshed, and next morning when roll was called his number 30 was skipped for obvious reasons. When 40 was called a man sprang from the line dressed in prison garb and called out, 'You no catchee thirty-nine!' It was the discharged Chinaman. He had found his old striped clothes at the wash house and put them on. His civilian suit he had hidden away. He was told that he would have to go, but he begged to be kept, urging that his conduct had been so good that he ought not to be turned away. His logic was pretty strong. 'You send me out, I killee somebody and come back. You sabe. Me stay no killee, no stealee, no cut'um hatchet.' General Batterman is in a quandary what to do, for he really believes if the man is turned away he will commit some crime to get back. He thinks of getting the lunacy commission to look into the case."

Daggett's Boomerang.

[From the Carson (Nev.) Appeal.]

When Congressman Daggett first went to Washington two years ago he was charged $16 50 for extra baggage at Omaha. This angered the congressman so that he vowed to make life a burden for every official on the Union Pacific and Central Pacific railroads. When he got to Washington he began to ship tons and tons of Congressional Records, which the Union Pacific and Central Pacific Railroads are obliged to carry free of charge, according to a stipulation with Uncle Sam, made when he granted them so much of his broad public domain. Daggett shipped boxes of these documents over the road, addressed to himself, and accompanied by his big frank and the words, "Congressional documents, free." During the first session he sent seventeen tons of this class of matter over the road, and as soon as he reached home he sent it back again. Daggett's big boxes of "Pub. Docs." soon became notorious, and the face and figure of the Congressman were also pretty well known. Wherever he stopped he was sure to ask some of the freight-agents if they had seen any of "my free freight lately." He always made himself known, and was sure to add, "You must handle the boxes gently; they contain the speeches of some of the greatest men of the nation. If you damage any of them I'll sue the road for the full value." On election day the boys got their revenge, and every mother's son of them voted and worked against Daggett. Those who ran on the Utah division located their voting places in Nevada in time to get their work in on election day and then raked Daggett fore and aft from sunrise to sundown. When it was known that he was defeated nearly every freight and baggage man on the line got drunk and for a couple of days the road was utterly demoralized.

Shakespeare's Mulberry Tree.

[From the New York Tribune.]

Somewhat more definite information is desirable respecting "the slips from Shakespeare's mulberry tree," which the mayor of Stratford-on-Avon, through "Charles Reade, Author," at the request of Miss Clara Belden, an American lady, has forwarded to the mayor of New York. One New York newspaper in its haste to communicate fresh and interesting information tells us that these slips, which are to be planted in Central park, are from a tree now growing over the grave of Shakespeare, which is curious, considering that the mortal bard is buried in a church, and no visitor at that shrine has ever seen a mulberry tree growing in that sacred edifice. Everybody who has looked into the matter knows how the mulberry tree planted by Shakespeare at New Place was cut down by the Rev. Francis Gastrell in 1756, because the pilgrims who came to visit it annoyed him. Most people probably associate the mulberry tree with the house in Henley street in which Shakespeare was born. If these slips have any authenticity, they must have been a tree itself grown from a slip of the original tree in the grounds of New Place; and when any one speaks of them as slips from Shakespeare's mulberry tree he indulges in a trifling poetic license, especially when he expresses the hope that "one of them at least will take root and grow to a finer tree than the original." How anyone knows that Shakespeare "planted" the tree from which these slips have descended we are not told. What we learn from the whole is that a great fame will carry a deal of the loosest kind of tradition.

VENTILATION.

A gentleman, while attending church one evening, found that his feet were icy cold, so that he had to raise them off the floor. Calling the attention of the sexton to the fact, the latter said, with some perplexity, "Yes, we have a good many complaints of cold feet from others; but I don't understand the reason why we can't keep the church warm—we surely have fires enough." So saying, he pointed to a register in the aisle behind the gentleman in the adjoining pew. Looking around the latter could see that there was a hot fire in the furnace beneath, and yet no heat came up. When a handkerchief was laid over the register it scarcely stirred. The visitor asked the sexton, "Have you any ventilation?" "No, sir." "Are there no windows open?" "None whatever." "How, then, can you expect the air to come in here if it can't get out somewhere?" There was no response—the man was nonplused. "Did you ever try to blow into a bottle?" continued the inquirer. "No, sir." "Did you think, if you did, that you could force out any more air from a bottle by blowing than was in it before?" He couldn't say. Never had thought of it. "Well," continued the gentleman, "you would soon find, if you tried, that it was impossible, and neither can you force air into this church through a register if you don't open a window or some other orifice." "But," the sexton demurred, "opening a window would let in the cold air, wouldn't it?" "You just try it," was the response. "Raise some of the windows on the leeward side of the church, and see what will happen." It was done, and instantly the handkerchief lying on the register rose half way to the ceiling with the force of the ascending current. The sexton stared in astonishment.

THE NORTHWEST.

Western Oregon.

Several very serious cases of scarlet fever are reported in Milwaukie. Mr. Lambert's child died from the disease Sunday morning.

Southern Oregon.

Gold in paying quantities has been discovered on Drew's creek.

The Lakeview public school has now between 60 and 70 pupils.

Dr. Cole, of Calapoola, has contracted to have 80 acres of brush slashed, paying therefor $100.

Treasurer Wright of Douglas county was the first to send in the taxes this year, having sent to Salem a total of $10,000.

The State Line Herald comes to hand in full dress for the first time since the Lakeview fire, some two and half months ago.

The wife of M. L. Bushnell, of Ten Mile, died on the 10th inst., leaving a family of six children, the youngest but three weeks old.

Five panthers and one bear were killed in the region of Myrtle creek last week. These animals were all found on a sheep ranche only a short distance apart.

The injuries sustained by the Driver family by being thrown from a hand-car near Roseburg, last week were extremely severe. The hand-car was on the down grade and going at a rapid rate, when a hog sprang from the bushes near by and attempted to cross the track in front of the car. The car struck the hog, threw it to one side, and then jumped off. When the car struck the hog a loose board were violently hurled to the ground. Mrs. Driver was literally scalped, the scalp being turned back from the forehead an inch or two. She also sustained two cuts in the face (one on each cheek) reaching to the bone. The doctor says she will recover, but is fearful that the injuries sustained may in the future continue to affect her brain. Mr. Driver was cut about the face and body, and though severely injured, will ultimately recover. One of the children—a little girl—since the accident, has remained almost entirely paralyzed, and her case is considered extremely serious. The other child was badly bruised.

Washington Territory.

The sealing season will commence off Cape Flattery about the 1st of January.

The Indians of the Yakima reservation last year raised 34,000 bushels of wheat besides various other products including 1000 tons of hay. They have built a handsome church and many comfortable farmhouses, and less than 10 per cent. of their wants are supplied by the government.

The capacity of the Port Discovery mills has been lately increased to 75,000 feet of lumber daily. Further improvements in the machinery will bring this capacity up to 100,000 feet by the first of January. The log supply comes from the lower sound and the company have now in the boom several million feet.

BEECHER TALKS.

His Views on Industrial and Political Topics.

New York, Dec. 2.—Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, in conversation with a journalist, gave full expression on industrial and political issues, and replied at length to theories recently advanced by Lieut. Gov. Dorsheimer and Abram S. Hewitt. Beecher said, regarding the necessity of devising some way of improving the condition of labor:

There is a strong feeling that there should be a limitation to the power of the single individual, as there is to corporations, to amass property. No investment or property rights can be allowed to stand in the way of the clearly ascertained rights of the people.

Regarding his much commented on dollar a day speech, he said:

It would be possible for a man to live on a dollar a day, with a helpful wife and without beer and tobacco. What labor wants is moral quality, not opportunity. Corporations are not evils. People talk against corporations and favor co-operative movements, though I cannot see the difference. They amount to the same thing. There may be danger in the extent of power of a corporation. The way to remedy this evil is not by destroying them, but rather to regulate and control them.

Regarding the tariff, Beecher said:

I am a free-trader, out and out. The tariff would constitute one principle, if not affording protection to any interest whatever. I heartily agree with those critics who say that the democrats threw away the only weapon they had in the last campaign in making a change from a high protective tariff to a tariff for revenue. Consideration must be had for great interests which have been built up upon the laws as they now are, and all changes must be governed by the wants of the laboring classes. My settled conviction that a system of free trade, as soon as it had begun to produce a legitimate result, would give more employment to more men than any system of high tariff that could be devised. I object to high tariff on moral grounds, as it gives a premium to lying and deceit, and it is an open bid for smuggling in every port on the three thousand miles of sea coast.

Southern Criticism of the President's Message.

Chicago, Dec. 7.—The Times has a large number of southern editorial comments on the president's message, of which the following extract from the Richmond Dispatch is the most noteworthy: Mr. Hayes libels the south in reference to the negroes. We need not stop to refute his false assertions on this subject, nor take notice of his twaddle about the solid south. He asserts what every man knows to be false when he pronounces the new amendments to the federal constitution to be the solemn expression of the will of the people. He knows they were forced upon the people of the south. The president revives the civil service humbug. Of all men in the world he should be the last to touch this subject—he who allowed his officers to stump the country for Garfield; he who appointed scores of villains to office that aided in defrauding South Carolina and Louisiana out of their vote for president in 1876; he who allowed three severe assessments to be made upon all the clerks, male and female, in all the departments of the government, to pay rascals for cheating Tilden out of the presidency. Mr. Hayes, let us say once more, is a hypocrite. He is a pretty fellow to open his mouth on the subject of divorce between congress and the president. The president touches upon polygamy, and as a means of extirpating it recommends the governing of Utah by a commission. That would serve as a precedent for a like mode of governing the southern states, which can as easily be converted into territories as they were a few years ago. The president says an army of 30,000 is the least the country can get along with. If we are to have republican rule we ought to have three times as many. General Hancock would have got along with 25,000. The president recommends that West Point be put under officers on the retired list—a blow at General Schofield and a sop to the negro. The president recommends that General Grant be made captain general, with all that the title implies. He served as president, and received $200,000 for it. He served as general and received as much for that service, we suppose; yet he is still to be provided for. A protest from the south would insure the success of the scheme. We forbear to comment upon it. So much for Hayes' last message. Its tone bodes no good to the country; but we have some faith in his successor. Mr. Garfield can be a great man. Let us see if he will be.

NOT A BEVERAGE.

"They are not a beverage, but a medicine, with curative properties of the highest degree, containing no poisonous drugs. They do not tear down an already debilitated system, but build it up. One bottle contains more hops, that is, more real hop strength, than a barrel of ordinary beer. Every druggist in Rochester sells them and the physicians prescribe them."—Rochester Evening Express on Hop Bitters.

Is Nature's Great System

Renovator

and its effects are as certain as they are salutary, searching out and removing impurities from the system, and acting not only as a prime curative, but as a thorough preventive.

Tropic-Fruit Laxative is supplanting the use of pills and drastic purgatives in Constipation and all kindred ailments.

Packed in bronzed tin boxes only. Avoid imitations. Ask your druggist for Descriptive Pamphlet, or address the proprietor,

THE GENUINE

DR. C. McLANE'S

CELEBRATED

FOR THE CURE OF

Hepatitis, or Liver Complaint,

DYSPEPSIA AND SICK HEADACHE.

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with lax; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.

AGUE AND FEVER.

DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used, preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them a FAIR TRIAL.

For all bilious derangements, and as a simple purgative, they are unequaled.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

The genuine are never sugar coated.

Every box has a red wax seal on the lid, with the impression DR. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS.

The genuine McLANE'S LIVER PILLS bear the signatures of C. McLANE and FLEMING BROS. on the wrappers.

Insist upon having the genuine DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation.

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN

IN THE TREATMENT OF ALL CHRONIC AND DIFFICULT DISEASES

DR. BRENAN WILL GUARANTEE TO CURE any form of disease of the generative organs or private disease.

He has become an expert in the treatment of disease, weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the

FOLLIES OF YOUTH,

Such as SPERMATORRHEA, or SEMINAL WEAKNESS, or LOSS OF PERFECT VITALITY. Nearly two-thirds of all the Chronic Diseases spring, either directly or indirectly, from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet this subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession.

I know that persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician in time, from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance, and permit those diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted, their organization broken down and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence.

Everything strictly confidential under all circumstances.

Lost manhood perfectly restored.

Consultation Free, and a list of printed questions sent to those living at a distance, who cannot consult him personally. Enclose postage stamp for list.

IN ADMIRALTY. THE SCHOONER COURSER. United States Marshal's Notice of Sale. United States of America, District of Oregon, ss. Whereas an order was made on the 7th day of December, 1880, by the Hon. Matthew P. Deady, judge of the district court of the United States for the District of Oregon, in a cause therein pending, wherein Thomas P. H. Whitlaw is libelant against the three-masted schooner Courser, commanding that the said schooner Courser, her tackle, apparel and furniture, should be sold, pursuant to the sentence and decree of said court, and proclaimed on the 7th day of December, 1880, upon fifteen days' notice of the time and place of sale to be published in the Daily Oregonian, and otherwise as upon an execution at law, and that the proceeds of such sale be paid to the clerk of said court; now, therefore, I hereby give notice that, in pursuance of said order, I will on Tuesday, the 28th day of December, 1880, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, at Astoria, in said district, where said vessel now lies, sell the said three-masted schooner Courser, her tackle, apparel and furniture, at public auction, to the highest bidder therefor for cash in hand.

Dated at Portland, said district, this 8th day of December, 1880.

EDWARDS KEARNEY,

United States Marshal for said District.

DR. SPINNEY,

No. 11 Kearny Street,

Treats all Chronic and Special Diseases.

YOUNG MEN

WHO MAY BE SUFFERING FROM THE effects of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity. DR. SPINNEY will guarantee to forfeit $500 for every case of Seminal Weakness or private disease of any kind or character which he undertakes and fails to cure.

MIDDLE AGED MEN.

There are many at the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with too frequent evacuations of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and a weakening of the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. On examining the urinary deposits a ropy sediment will often be found, and sometimes small particles of albumen will appear, or the color will be of a thin milkish hue, again changing to a dark and torpid appearance. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

Office Hours—10 to 4 and 6 to 8. Sundays from 10 to 11 A. M. Consultation free. Thorough examination and advice, $5. Call or address

DR. SPINNEY & CO.,

No. 11 Kearny street, San Francisco.

P. S.—For private diseases a short time, a full course of medicines, sufficient for a cure, with all instructions, will be sent to any address on receipt of $10.
